They tell us that such a state of things is wrong; and that is trac, also. They tell us that we should prevent the extension and perpetuation of such a monstrous political incountity. Amen! The Free Soil principle is a good principle; a sound principle; the Whige, Daniel Webster himself, the representative of Whiggery, tells us that it is a good principle, not that we need their moral instructions, or his. Moreover, it is our own principle, which we would joyfally die to

Therefore, we will not give our vote to an abstraction; we will rather give it to one of two candidates who may, possibly, be benefitted by it. For, admitting the free soil principle to be the principle, as Daniel Webster and the Whige reluctantly admit that it is, admitting that it is the duty of every good man to vote for it, we are asked to identify it with Martin Van Buren. We cannot swallow that.
